USE OF FORCE REPORT

Remember:

- The Incident Report is your account of what happened in a confrontation.
- Many individuals, including a jury, may read this report.
- Be certain to indicate the causes for your action including all reasonable suspicion and probable cause.
- Quote the subject directly, if possible.
- Quote your statements as accurately as possible.
- Be chronological.
- Show the totality of the circumstances.
- List all factors that contributed to the incident.
- Detail the debriefing that occurred.
- Specify the care rendered to the subject after control was effected.
- State your perception at the time of the incident based upon your training and experience.
- Be specific with regard to the force you employed, areas to which it was directed and why it was employed in place of other force options.
